GUITEAU HANGS.

Yesterday Charles J. Guiteau paid the penalty of a fiendish crime committed almost a year ago. He had a fair trial and everything that could be done for him. The plea of insanity was used thanked him heartily for all he had for all it was worth. We never thought done for him. He took a bath and ate him insane, but attributed the act and his conduct since as due to an inordi- Mrs. Scoville made quite a scene trying nate desire for notoriety—he wanted to be talked about and delighted to be heard. Hence he studied up new and 12:45. His neck was broken by the fall sensational means of attracting attention. Unfortunately for this great nation he chose the dastardly act of killing our beloved President as the surest means of gaining that notoriety he erayed. But the hanging of Guiteau is no satisfaction. It does not return to us the martyr, nor does it free the mainds of the people at all. Justice is not satisfied. The great crime is not atoned-far from it. To take a theusand such lives as Guiteau's would not make us feel anyleasier. We have simply the thought that it was all the wretch had to give. There will now be a rest from his ravings, and we hope we have heard the last of the Scovilles and and the rest of them. The assassin is dead. Let us hope that it will be many a day before we will have another Guiteau.

WHAT'S THE MATTER, NOW?

Judge Rising evidently does not like the way things are going in Storey county. Up there they have a full set offiers elected by Senator Fair's "influence". The Grand Jury that has just been drawn were instructed in this wise by the Republican Judge. "He calling their attention to the rumors of dereliction of duty of certain public officers, and telling them to appoint a committee if they thought necessary and investigate the workings of all public offices. He urged upon the jury the importance of secrecy, as oftentimes the ends of justice were thwarted by members of juries telling to outsiders the business transacted in the jury room. The Judge stated that members of the Grand Jury were liable to punishment for contempt of Court for such action." The record the Democratic officers are making throughout the State must be very disheartening to that ures to protect the President from any possible violence. Such a prominent event as the hanging of Gulteau would naturally attract many rough characters and it might have entered the head of one of them to follow his example. of death. Nothing like anarchy would follow, even if this event should occur, because of the loyalty of the people, but it would disturbe trade and make us feel so insecure that our government itself would be endangered.

The following is the constitutional amendment adopted by the people of fowa on Tuesday: "No person shall manufacture for sale or sell or keep for sale any intoxicating liquors whatever, including ale, wine and beer. The General Assembly shall by law prescribe regulations herein contained, and shall thereby present suitable penalties for violations of the provisions thereof."

GUITEAU'S DEATH.

The telegraph yesterday gave a very lengthy account of the preparations for the execution, but said nothing about the hanging beyond the mere fact itself. The news sent is substantially this: That Guiteau spent his last night very quietly and showed no fear of his execution. He made his will, giving his books and papers to Dr. Hicks. He was visited by his brother and sister and bid them good by. They are to have his body. He bid his lawyer, Reed, good by, and heartily just before taken from his cell. to get in and witness the hanging, but was prevented. Guiteau was hanged at and not a movement of his body or limbs was detected. Death ensued instantly. His brains will be taken out and examined.

A train was precked at Long Branch yesterday. Gen. Grant was pulled from under a car, with but few scratches. Several were killed and many wounded. Spreading of rails caused the disaster.

When the news reached Carson that Guiteau had been hung the fire bells were rung and there was a general jollification among the people.

A Wise Precaution.

The foolish regulation requiring the holding of all letters not fully stamped until the Government secures the defithe business address of the writer is Major John Dennis, Canavan's right the Postmaster to notify that person of the deficiency. The advantage of having your address on the envelope is thus very apparent. in this connection we do it in first-class shape. Call around.

Pyramid Reservation.

Mr. McMasters, the Indian Agent at Pyramid, is making extensive improvements for the Piutes who make that place their home. He has purchased a fine lot of agricultural implements and hopes to educate the red men into the mysteries of farming. So far his efforts have not been crowned with overwhelming success. He is now about to erect a church and a school house. Eight carloads of lumbor have been purchased for this purpose, and the Indians have been utilized in hauling this lumber from Wadsworth to the Reservation. A preacher is supplied by the Government Infants to look after the spiritual welfare of the children of the forest. Mr. McMasters sttends closely to business and appears to be making a success of it.

When crossing Sierra Valley last week on the way from Reno to Susanville James Taylor found the grasshoppers so thick that the wheels of his wagon crushed enough of them to moisten the dust, and cause it to roll up on the wheels like mud. The pests were so thick that in jumping they constantly dashed against each other and made a sound like rushing water, and people could not hear each other talk.
